Hobart International Airport is pleased to announce that their new-look website is now available for users to enjoy.

The new website offers a more visually pleasing and user-friendly design, whereby users are able to locate all of the information that they need in a simplistic way.

CEO of Hobart International Airport, Mr Brett Reiss, said: "Hobart Airport is committed to continual product and service improvement for our customers, the new website is another way of achieving this.

"There are great opportunities on the site for users to subscribe to Hobart Airport's publications, gain up-to-date and accurate flight and Airport information and contact us directly.

"There is also the option for businesses to advertise on a site which receives a significant number of visitors," added Mr Reiss.

To view the new site, go to www.hobartairport.com.au.

Hobart Airport worked in partnership with local website development agency, Additional View, to create the site.
