What you can expect from our terminal expansion

The Terminal Expansion Project (TXP) aims to enhance passenger experience by making arrivals and departures more efficient and seamless. The redevelopment of the terminal building provides the opportunity to express some of Tasmania's unique culture and create an atmosphere that enhances the first and last impression of Tasmania. By the end of 2026 this will include:

- Expanded domestic departures footprint to facilitate passenger growth;
- An international processing facility for narrow and wide body aircraft operations;
- Expanded retail and food & beverage offerings;
- Expanded baggage handling services;
- Capacity to meet new enhanced security requirements for passengers and baggage; and
- A new lounge for Qantas and a lounge for passengers of other airlines.

What this means for Tasmania

The Terminal Expansion Project will offer an improved experience for airport visitors and is set to accommodate significant forecast domestic passenger growth of 30% by FY2030.

Converting on the potential for international flights will increase international visitation, contributing to tourism economy, one of Tasmania's key sectors.

"International flights will stimulate regional economic growth and employment opportunities. It is estimated the total economic benefit is $128 million per annum with 680 additional jobs. As well as increased tourism, it will open up opportunities for Tasmanian primary producers and exporters to directly export to international markets, guaranteeing products are delivered faster and fresher, increasing Tasmania's competitive advantage." – Hobart City Deal

The project will have a major social benefit, allowing increased accessibility for residents overseas to connect with family and friends, educational destinations or holiday opportunities.
